

About the Editors

Faqeer Muhammad currently serves as the Director of the China Study Centre at Karakoram International University (KIU), Gilgit-Baltistan. With over 20 years of experience in teaching and research, he is a distinguished academic specializing in international trade, economic development, and regional integration. He holds a PhD in International Trade from Jiangxi University of Finance and Economics, China. In addition, he earned an MS in Economics from Dalarna University, Sweden and an MA in Economics from the University of Karachi, Pakistan. He is the author of three notable books (1) Silk Route Revisited: Essays and Perspectives on the China-Pakistan Economic Corridor Beyond (2) BRI and Pakistan: A Journey through Politics and Economy. (3) CPEC and BRI Nexus: Perspectives on Economy, Politics, Culture and Environment. His research interests include economic governance, development policy, and regional connectivity, with a particular focus on the dynamics of CPEC and BRI. Dr. Faqeer has actively participated in numerous academic conferences and symposia in China and Pakistan, engaging with scholars, policymakers, and practitioners on key issues related to economic cooperation and strategic development.

Khalid Mehmood Alam is currently working as Assistant Professor in China Study Centre, Karakoram International University, Gilgit-Baltistan. He holds a PhD in Applied Economics from Beijing Jiaotong University, China. He did M.Sc. in Economics from Quaid-i-Azam University Islamabad, Pakistan. Mr. Alam has actively participated in research and published several research articles in international journals. He is the editor of three books (1) Silk Route Revisited: Essays and Perspectives on the China-Pakistan Economic Corridor Beyond (2) BRI and Pakistan: A Journey through Politics and Economy. (3) CPEC and BRI Nexus: Perspectives on Economy, Politics, Culture and Environment. His areas of research interest are Transportation Economics, CPEC, BRI, and Economic Development.

Attaullah Shah is a leading researcher, educator, and practitioner with 35-year senior/executive level diverse experience in the fields of Academic leadership, Project design & management, teaching and research, public connectivity and high-performance team building in higher education across public and private sectors. He has been involved in connectivity with first grade think-tanks and policy makers nationally and internationally to frame dynamic strategies for implementing result driven policies across Pakistan and several other countries. His interest in the China studies has been created mainly due to his close interaction with the faculty and researchers at various Universities of PR China. During his visits to China, he developed strong partnerships with the research institution and Universities for joint research and collaboration. He also writes about modern technologies and their impact on socioeconomic development of the region, with special reference to CPEC and BRI.